

FIVE GREAT JEWISH MUSICIANS

with guest speaker John Dunston

John Dunston was Director of Music at Harris Manchester College, University of Oxford. Throughout his career as a teacher and head, he has championed the central role of music in education. He led the first UK school choir tour to China, and the Fellowship deepened his choral conducting in both secular and sacred contexts. He later gave illustrated lectures, collaborated with related organisations, and convened gatherings of Fellows with shared interests.

The experiences profoundly shaped his own musical work and significantly influenced the choirs he worked with in the UK.
